

TFR PROCEDURES

- 1.) Go to: <http://tfr.faa.gov/>
- 2.) Click "TFR Map"

The screenshot shows the FAA TFR Map website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the FAA logo and the text "Federal Aviation Administration". Below this, there are several tabs: "TFR List", "TFR Map", "Map Airports", "TFR Help", "PilotWeb", and "TFR". A red arrow points to the "TFR Map" tab. Below the tabs, there are search filters for "Center", "State", and "Type". The "Center" dropdown is set to "Select a center", "State" is "Select a state", and "Type" is "All NOTAMS". The date and time are displayed as "MON, 21 MAR 2016 15:36 UTC". Below the filters, there is a table of NOTAMS with columns for "Date", "NOTAM", "Facility", "State", "Type", "Description", and "Zoom".

- 3.) Under "Select Center to Zoom" select 'Jacksonville' from the drop down list then click "GO"

The screenshot shows the FAA TFR Map website interface with a map of the United States. A red arrow points to the "Select Center to zoom" dropdown menu, which is set to "Jacksonville". Below the dropdown, there is a "GO" button. The map shows the United States with a red dot indicating the selected center. The "Map Layers" panel on the right is visible, showing "NOTAMS", "Centers", and "Political Boundaries".

- 4.) Zoom in around NDZ. Print TFRs. If not printing in color, ensure to highlight TFRs as they will not show up easily. If a TFR is in the local area, notify crews either verbally or by writing on white board next to aircraft assignments.
